Head & Neck and Skull Base Fellowship

Newcastle: John Hunter Hospital

This is a one-year, funded Clinical Fellowship in an extremely busy head and neck unit which will be offered internationally.

The Hunter region services much of Northern NSW and consequently there is a broad and varied caseload including head and neck oncologic surgery, microvascular reconstruction, thyroid and parathyroid surgery and both lateral and anterior skull base surgery working closely with the Department of Neurosurgery.

Involvement in teaching and supervision of registrars will be expected and opportunity to participate in clinical and basic research as well as private operating lists can be provided depending on the successful candidate’s level of skills and experience.
